Evaluating digital content

Not all of the information you find on the internet is true because anybody can write anything they want to online. Some information online is not reliable so it is important to check information on at least three different websites, in a book or by talking to someone you trust. Take care to spell correctly when typing in a search. Even a small typing error can bring up unwanted results. Viewing some material online is illegal. If we see something upsetting we minimise the page and tell an adult we trust.

Think before you post

Sharing pictures and videos can be a great way of telling your story but always think before you share.

If you've taken a picture or video of your friends or family you must get their permission to post it online.

Would you be happy for the picture to be put on a billboard so anyone – including your mum, dad or your teacher – could see it? If the answer's no, then don't post it.

Anything you post online could be there forever. If you're not sure a photo paint a positive picture of you (or your friends!) then think twice before posting.

Before you...
